

Craig Kouri
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT, PRINCIPAL - CONSTRUCTION & DESIGN

Craig Kouri was named Executive Vice President, Principal - Construction & Design of Becknell Industrial in January, 2011.

Mr. Kouri joined Becknell in 2000 and has been the Company's architect of record on more than 100 building projects across the United States. He is responsible for providing and overseeing architecture services, job cost estimating, bid review and project management.

A licensed architect in 30 states, Craig brings more than 20 years of experience designing large and complex industrial buildings. He offers a unique perspective to the Company, handling all coordination with other project architects, engineers and construction managers.

Prior to joining Becknell, Craig began his career in Atlanta, Georgia working for a small architecture firm that focused on retail, commercial and corporate office projects. He also spent two years in Toledo, Ohio as an architect working on large institutional projects, including schools and university buildings.

Craig obtained his bachelor of architecture degree from Kent State and has previously volunteered his time to the Literacy Volunteers of America. He is currently active in his church, volunteering at various events throughout the year, serves as President on the Board of Directors of his condo association and coaches various youth baseball teams.
